Skinny Girls Don't Have OOMPH!

It takes those extra lbs. of solid flesh to "bring out" your natural curves

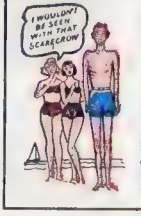
If you're otherwise healthy but skinny, scrawny, rundown and lbs. underweight, try correcting this common mistake in eating.

THERE are three essential substances that many thin, scrawny and undernourished girls may fail to get in sufficient quantity from the food they eat. These substances are Vitamin B_1, calcium phosphate and iron. If, like thousands of others, you are underweight without organic cause . . . never seem to gain a pound . . . are so thin that you look gangling and gawky from insufficient amounts of these precious elements, don't get discouraged.

You may find that by correcting this simple mistake in eating you can easily add firm solid flesh . . . extra alluring pounds that help bring out those natural eye-catching curves. A simple and easy way is to try the amazing new product called Numal that supplies, in significant amounts, the Vitamin B_1, calcium phosphate and iron needed in the daily diet. Plus a food that in itself is a great help in adding extra pounds.

Take 1 heaping teaspoonful of Numal 3 times a day. It is pleasant, assimilable and easy to take. You will get the equivalent in Vitamin B_1 content of 34 cakes of average moist baker's yeast . . . the iron equivalent of 15 pounds of tomatoes or 1⅔ pounds of spinach or 9 pounds of boiled beets...and the calcium equivalent of ⅘ths pint of fresh cow's milk, the phosphorus content of 1 glass.

Remember, if you don't get a sufficient quantity of Vitamin B_1 in your daily diet, you may suffer loss of appetite. And without sufficient iron, the element that helps build rich red blood, you may be rundown, pale, weak and listless. You need calcium phosphate for sound teeth and sturdy bones.



SKINNY MEN ARE NOT ATTRACTIVE EITHER

. . . a skinny, scrawny body is no asset in social or business life. Give NUMAL a chance to build you up, put firm flesh on you.

Numal Must Please You or No Cost

So if you are skinny, gangling and bony from lack of these precious nutrients, don't wait any longer. Get Numal today. You will want those extra pounds that "bring out" your natural eye-catching curves. Take Numal faithfully for a week. See if you can't actually feel the difference . . . gain weight and better color. If after this short period you honestly don't feel Numal has benefited you, just return the bottle for a complete refund of your money. Numal costs but a few cents a day to use.

If loss of weight persists see your doctor

THE PUNCH LINE!

IT was a Saturday morning in September, and the air was buzzing with the new Fall activities that came to Franklin about the same time each year, and fairly set the air alive with excitement after the hot, lazy Summer had passed. Judy Willis, very un-elegantly attired in faded jeans and a shirt that obviously was her brother's, sat on the porch steps, munching an apple in time to a new tune she had heard in the jukebox at the ice-cream parlor, and reading the local paper. Alongside her, Mrs. Willis sat and peeled potatoes, occasionally interrupting her work to peek over her daughter's shoulder at the society page.

Judy pointed to a picture of a couple who were standing behind a huge white cake. "Lookit ... there's Mona and Bob at their engagement party."

Mrs. Willis glanced at the photograph and sighed. "My, doesn't she look pretty." Then she returned to the potatoes.

"Mom! Mom! Look at this. The Community Council's giving their annual Fall dance at the High School next week ... and get this ... REX FIELD's band is going to play."

Mrs. Willis nodded at the potato peels. "Hmm? How nice, dear! Who's Rex Field?"

Judy screamed! "WHO'S REX FIELD? Why he's the biggest name in bands in all the mid-West! He's had engagements at the Rose Room in the Warwick Hotel, and he's even played some of the swankiest night clubs in Chicago! Can you imagine ... Rex Field is coming to Franklin!! And I'm going to see him, because Bud's taking me to the dance, just like he does every year! I'm going to phone him right this minute and tell him the news! I'll bet he'll be surprised." With this, Judy slammed the screen door and rushed to the phone inside.

"Bud ... you'll never guess who's going to play for the dance next week!"

Bud trembled at the sound of Judy's voice over the wire. "T-the d-dance? WHAT dance?"

"Silly! The annual Community Council Fall dance! Rex Field is going to play and I'm going to ask him if he'll let me sing with the band at the dance."

"Gee, Judy, that's great! With a voice like yours, Field won't let you stop singing."

"Thanks Bud. Listen, I'd sorta like to look real special Saturday night ... just so Rex will notice me and agree to let me sing a few songs. It sure would be super if I could sing for him just that one evening! So, since I'll be wearing my blue taffeta, I thought tea roses would be best for a corsage."

Bud began to shake violently. "C-corsage? Yeah, well ... well ... GEE WHIZ, Judy, I thought you were mad at me since that night I couldn't keep our date because I had to fix the car, a-and, well, I didn't think we'd be going together to the dance this year, s-so, I-I asked Claire to be my date. I-I ..."

"CLAIRE! Why, that frizzled redhead ... h-how could you ask her for a date after she insulted me at Connie's party, and said that my singing sounded like a 5 o'clock whistle? Ooohhh, Bud ..." Judy slammed the receiver down, and even the potato peels curled at the sound.

The spark of the September air seemed to disappear, and Judy sat dejected next to the telephone, growling at the black monster that had just brought her the horrible news. "NOW what am I going to do? I could go to the dance alone, but wouldn't I look like a drip. Now, if ... THAT'S IT! Paul!"

The thought of going to a dance with her older brother Paul didn't exactly thrill Judy, but it was better than appearing there like an old maid. Judy waited eagerly for Paul to return from his summer classes at Franklin University, where he was studying to be an engineer, and when he finally arrived home in time for supper, she nearly knocked him down in all her eagerness.

Paul looked aghast when Judy confronted him with her problem. "NO! NO, I WON'T DO IT!"

"Oh, please, please Paul ... just this once. It'll mean everything to me, just to sing once for the famous Rex Field. And wouldn't you be proud to see your sister up on the stage, singing to the strains of a famous band's music?"

"Well, I always said you had the most terrific voice in town, b-but, well, okay! Just this once.

Judy got her tearoses, and when she pinned them on her blue dress the night of the dance, even the ugly thought of Bud dating Claire for the same dance, seemed to dance away. She had spent hour after hour singing the popular tunes of the day, perfecting them until she had bags under her eyes. But tonight, her eyes were clear and shining with anticipation and excitement.

At five minutes of eight, Bud rang Claire's doorbell, and was greeted with a rush of words. "Bud, dah-ling, how do you like my dress? And my upsweep? I always did say that green silk and an upsweep were meant for redheads, and here I am. And thank goodness ... thank GOODNESS you're not going to the dance with that shrilly-voiced little mouse you've been dating. She's better off at home where she can't hear what good singing's like when Rex Field gives out tonight." Bud groaned uncomfortably to know that he was going out with one of the most obnoxious girls in town, because he had wanted to see Rex Field, too, and it was too late to ask anyone else, when he had argued with Judy the week before.

At the dance, Judy was a pretty sight. The fine rhinestone necklace she had borrowed from her mother seemed to add sparkle to her expression. As she danced with her solemn-faced brother, she saw Bud and Claire enter the room. Judy's eyes met Claire's, and immediately Claire began to babble and gesture to Bud.

"Wh-why, there's little old mousy herself, Buddy dah-ling. And with her brother... how divine," dripped Claire.

Bud replied, "Yeah, I knew she was coming... she's singing tonight with Rex Field... imagine, Judy's gonna sing for Rex Field... and with her voice and looks, plus that terrific outfit, she's gonna be a hit! Who knows where that can lead to?"

"Hmmm. Hmmmn? Did you say something, Buddy dah-ling?" Claire oozed, as a little plan began to form in her nasty little mind.

The music of Rex Field's band continued for a while, and immediately following a hot Lindy that left the couples exhausted with joy, everyone turned at the sound of an impressive fanfare. Rex Field motioned to the dancers to come closer to the bandstand, and when the buzzes had quieted down, he announced, "It's been brought to my attention that in our group here tonight, we have a pretty terrific little singer, who I hope will make me, the band, and I'm sure everyone happy, by joining us up here and giving out with a little music, Miss Judy Willis."

As the enthusiastic shouts and applause filled the room, Judy turned to her impishly grinning brother, and cried "Paul! YOU must have told him . . . oh, thanks so awfully much. B-but I-I'm getting just a-a little nervous now."

But Paul's playful push sent her up to the bandstand, where, after being introduced to Mr. Field, she began her song. As she sang, it was obvious that Rex Field was impressed, and that the audience was enjoying her performance... all except a squirming girl with red hair. Claire thought, "Look at all these stupid people. And Rex Field, too. Some critic he is. If I have my way, Judy's going to end up pretty miserably here tonight. I'm going to make her look awfully silly in front of Mr. Rex Field himself."

Bud turned for a minute to say, "Hey, where're you going?"

"I'm just going to get a glass of punch, Dah-ling. I'll be right back."

Somehow her tone of voice left Bud wondering, and out of the corner of his eye he watched Claire step across the room to the refreshment table. He saw her reach into a bowl of fresh lemons, smile wickedly, and draw nearer to the bandstand.

"That drip. She's going to play a dirty trick on Judy," thought Bud as he, unnoticed by Claire, slipped around in back of the scheming girl, and grabbed her arm, trying not to disturb the rapt silence of the room as he half-dragged her to the door. "You—you are the biggest drip I've seen in all my life! Y-you are so LOW that a worm would have to dig a hole to find you!" he screamed at Claire as he got outside to his car.

"You almost got away with it, and it's a good thing I realized in time what you were up to, that you were going to stand near Judy while she sang, and suck on that lemon, so that she wouldn't be able to make a sound!"

"Why, Bud, dah-ling, I wasn't doing anything wrong. I just was going to put that mouse Judy in her right place in front of Rex Field. I was just having a little old fun, sweet."

"Fun, my eyebrow!" growled Bud as he swung from out of the parking field, raced down Main Street, stopped in front of Claire's house, and deposited her in front of the porch steps. "And now YOU'RE in your right place, Miss Smart-Alek! Goodbye!"

When Bud returned to the Community Hall, he found that Judy was just finishing her final song, amid a shower of praises from Rex Field, and the happy shouts of the audience.

Judy was bubbling over with happiness as she left the stand and was met by Paul and Bud. Paul put his arm around his "little sister" and Bud said, "Gee, Judy! I-I guess I'll have to apologize for running out on you before. But I'm sure you were tops."

"Oh, Bud, Paul, I-I don't know what to say. Mr. Field was so sweet, and guess what ... he said that just as soon as I get out of high school next year, I should see him, and he'll arrange a start for me, maybe even with his own band! I-I can hardly believe all this has happened to me!" By the way, Bud, I wondered where you slipped off. Why, where's the frizzled redhead?"

"Oh," said Bud, as he led Judy to the dance floor, "I just found out that she's quite a... a LEMON! Yep, that's just what she was, a lemon."

PATSY'S CLUB PAGE

Hi, fans! I only wish I could print all of your wonderful letters, but here are a few I enjoyed very much:

Dear Patsy:
I have several sisters older than myself and they treat me like a baby in spite of the fact that I'm a young lady of seventeen. It makes me boil when they leave me out of their conversations and activities because they think I'm too young to fit in with their crowd of friends or understand what they're talking about. How can I make them accept me on their level?

Sincerely,
NINA HARPER
Los Angeles, California

Dear Nina:
I think in a year or two your problem simply will not exist because then you will either go away to college or get a job. In the meantime, however, you can probably avoid family arguments by sticking with your own friends and entering into their talks and fun. I guess your older sisters like the idea of having a baby sister to protect and look after, and it would be difficult to force them to face the facts of your maturity. Although this is a distasteful situation, there seems to be nothing to do but wait for time to correct their impression that you're still an infant.

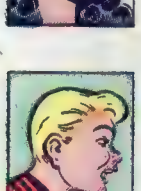
Love,
Patsy

Dear Patsy:
I've read the story about the fashion show in issue #47 of Patsy Walker three times and I'm going to read it three more times, I liked it so much. I wish there were more stories about your battles with Hedy. They're much funnier than the ones about you and Buzz.

Love,
MARY ANN JAMISON
Hartford, Conn.

Dear Mary Ann:
Until Nan pulled the "switch" with the fur pieces, I was sure I was a goner. But good old Nan smelled a rat and was she right! The next time, instead of cats, I'd like to wrap a bear around Hedy Wolfe.

Love,
Patsy



Dear Patsy:
There are two boys I like very much. One is wealthy and I have the feeling that my parents are nicer to him for that reason. I'm afraid that if they give the other boy the cold shoulder much longer, he won't want to date me anymore. What should I do?

Sincerely yours,
DEDE PERKINS
Madison, Wisconsin

Dear Dede:
Perhaps it's your imagination that your parents are nicer to one than the other or maybe they have a good reason to prefer one to the other that has nothing to do with wealth. But in any case, it's a good idea, I think, to have dates that take you away from the house. After you've made up your mind which you like best (if it's one of them) then you could have a talk with your parents if it still seems necessary.

Love,
Patsy

Dear Patsy:
Hedy Wolfe plays so many dirty tricks on you and Buzz I don't see how you can still be friends. For instance, if somebody ever tried the trick on me that Hedy pulled on you in the story about that cute sailor in issue #47, I'd never speak to her again.

Wondering,
SUSAN O'MALLEY
Fargo, North Dakota

Dear Susan:
With Hedy it's a battle of wits and not so much a battle of ill feeling. Although I don't like Hedy's intentions, sometimes the end result isn't too bad. Remember the Easter story? If it hadn't been for Hedy, those poor little orphans wouldn't have had those wonderful baskets.

Love,
Patsy

Dear Patsy:
You and Hedy and Buzz have so much fun all the time, and I enjoy your adventures so much, I read your stories over and over again. I'm not very popular and the boys say I'm a wallflower. When people try to be friendly, I just can't think of anything to say. Could you help me?

Lonely,
CATHERINE TICHLER
Fort Wayne, Indiana

Dear Catherine:
I used to have the same difficulty when I met new people, but I found that if I just relaxed and let the conversation take its own course, instead of trying to force it, things went more smoothly. It's fear that makes you clam up, so if you keep thinking most people are nice and really like you (which I'm sure they do) perhaps you won't have a problem anymore.

Love,
Patsy

Well, there's just no more room, but I'll be back next issue with answers to your letters. Until then, don't forget your copy of PATSY WALKER, issue #49, on sale now . . . and write your letter to: PATSY WALKER, 270 Park Avenue, New York 17, New York.
